Jonathan Homeyer is an executive vice president and is division manager for the Wells Fargo Commercial Banking South Texas Division, based in Houston. He oversees a group of offices that serve the financial needs of middle-market companies with annual sales of $20 million and greater.

Jonathan began his banking career in 1993 with First Interstate Bank of Texas, a Wells Fargo predecessor in the Texas market. He then worked at ABN Amro Bank in its Houston corporate energy group for several years before returning to Wells Fargo in 1996. A Houston native, Jonathan holds both bachelor's and master's degrees in finance from Texas A&M University.

Active in the community, he currently serves on the executive committees of the boards of the United Way of Greater Houston and Houston's Society for the Performing Arts, as well as on the board of The Cynthia Woods Mitchell Pavilion, the Texas A&M 12th Man Foundation's Champions Council, and the University of Houston's Commercial Banking Advisory Board. He is also immediate past chairman of the board of Inspiration Ranch, a horse therapy program for children with special needs.

In prior years, he served as director and past chairman of The Woodlands Area Economic Development Partnership, and on the Woodlands Advisory Council for the Memorial Hermann Hospital Foundation.

Within Wells Fargo, Jonathan serves on both the Houston Area and Texas Statewide Charitable Contributions Committees, and he has previously chaired the company's Community Support/United Way Campaign for the Greater Houston Area.

He and his wife have two children, and reside in The Woodlands, Texas.
