

Emily Rollins

Audit & Assurance Partner, Deloitte

Director, Washington State Board of Accountancy

Emily is an Audit & Assurance partner at Deloitte, serving as Central Texas Technology Audit Practice Leader. She has more than 24 years' experience providing services to early-stage venture-backed companies through large public companies, primarily in the technology, media, and venture capital industries.

Over the course of her career, Emily has served over 50 TMT (technology, media and telecommunications) companies as well as several medical device and life-sciences companies. She currently leads Deloitte's technology industry audit practice in Austin, is a member of the firm's New Revenue Recognition Requirements team, and co-leads the firm's Audit Innovation Internal Control project.

Emily is a graduate of Claremont McKenna College, a licensed CPA in Texas and Washington, and is also certified in International Financial Reporting Standards. In addition to her client service responsibilities, Emily is very involved in recruiting and regularly instructs local, national and industry training courses. She serves on several not-for-profit boards, including the Washington State Board of Accountancy. She developed a Not-for-Profit Board Development workshop as well as was an integral leader in helping develop OnBoarding Women and Women in the Boardroom development programs.
