

Dr. Thomas Seitz

Director - McKinsey & Company, M.D. Anderson Cancer Center

Thomas Seitz is a Senior Partner with McKinsey & Company and the Managing Director of the Southern Region (Houston, Dallas, Atlanta, Charlotte, and Miami locations). He joined McKinsey in 1997 in Düsseldorf. Thomas Seitz is serving clients in the oil & gas, electric power, and chemicals industries. He is part of the leadership group of the Firm's global Energy Practice. In addition, he has been leading McKinsey's initiatives on capital management, strategic planning, and corporate transformations and has served clients across industries and continents extensively on these topics. He is a member of McKinsey's global Senior Partner Election Committee.

Prior to joining McKinsey & Company, Thomas Seitz built and managed a technical consulting firm serving clients in Europe and Asia. He received his degrees in electrical, mechanical engineering, and computer science from the University of Aachen, Germany, and Cornell University, New York, as well as a Ph.D. from the University of Aachen. Thomas Seitz published several papers and books and served on boards and working groups, including the state energy advisory council.