

James Livingston is Executive Vice President and Director of Municipal and Institutional Services at Zions Bancorporation in Salt Lake City, Utah, and President of Zions Public Finance, Inc. At Zions, he oversees corporate trust, public finance and institutional customer interest rate risk hedging as well as the bank's municipal bond, loan and lease portfolio. He also serves on numerous management and risk committees, including Asset and Liability Management Committee (ALCO).

James serves on the Board of Directors and as chair of the Finance and Planning Committee of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Des Moines. Prior to the FHLB of Des Moines he was a Director of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Seattle, which merged with FHLB Des Moines in 2015.

Prior to joining Zions, James was Director of Financial Research at Ziff Brothers Investments, a multibillion dollar hedge fund in New York City. Prior to Ziff Brothers, he was an assistant professor of accounting at the Edwin L. Cox School of Business at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas.

James earned a B.A. in Economics from Brigham Young University, an M.S. in Applied Economics from University of Rochester, and a Ph.D. in Business Administration from University of Rochester.